

A circular phylogenetic tree showing the relationships between various bacterial strains based on their 16S rDNA sequences. The tree is divided into several major clades, with labels indicating the number of copies of each strain (0 or 1). The tree is rooted at the top, and the branches radiate outwards, forming a complex web of relationships. The labels are arranged in a circular fashion, corresponding to the branches of the tree.